DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Roos.

The cited patent discloses an electro-surgical instrument having a shaft with a proximal end, a distal end and one electrode terminal at the distal end of the shaft, a return electrode, one connector coupled to the electrode terminal for connecting the electrode to a high frequency power supply; and an insulating shield coupled to the distal end of the shaft, the shield having a distal surface spaced distally from the electrode terminal. Please refer to figures 7, 8, and 9.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 12-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Roos. The Roos patent discloses an electrode terminal at the distal end of the electro-surgical instrument, but does not disclose a plurality of electrically independent electrode terminals. However, it is the examiner's opinion that without a full and precise description of the elements, to claim a plurality of electrical or non-electrical electrodes is basically a duplication of a conventional and well-known element. For the record, the Roos patent discloses both, an electrical and a non-electrical electrode.

Based on the observations above, a person of ordinary skill in the art would consider the duplication of well-known elements, an obvious design alternative, and therefore, a non-patentable limitation(s).

Concerning the infusion of conductive fluid, examiner invites applicant to provide clarification as to the difference between the type of fluid used in Roos and the definition of conductive fluid according to the specification of this application.
